KEEP IT GOING

Reno has so far recovered her cheer fulness as to put in a busy day last Meaday trying to collect. The amount which changed hands was very liberal, considering. There was a great deal of money paid on new debts contrac ed since the fire, and some on these which were due at the time. There are a good many who are really unable te pay up, and we have not heard of anyone being pushed; but there are others who can pay up as well as ever they could, and some even better. The few whe are in independent circumstances, and could stand two or three fires, are able to meet all demands and se are those who had few debts and big insurance. The bulk of the people, however, were badly cinched and feel very poer. Still, if all should hoard what few dollars they get hold of, it will be all the werse for them and for the rest of us. If a man haugs on to a ten-dellar piece, while he may owe several hundred, it keeps that much out of circulation, and if a Republicanism in the speeches of Garhundred do it, a thousand is lying field and others on that side Monday. idle. If A. gives his ten to B. who pays it to C. and he to E. he may ewe his grocery bill to a man who owes the butcher, who pays a little of his plantation darky. It is safe to say debt to his clerk, who runs back to A. that the election laws will not be with it; and so it goes until that one either repealed or emasculated this ten-dollar piece may have paid off as debt alone forty or fifty dollars, and in the town may have liquidated hundreds of dollars of grinding debt How much better all feel than if they had not handled a cent, and there is cause for congratulation, for the oper ation was a real, bons fide business success. The ten dollars was the drop of oil on the wheels of the great, mystical business machine which runs in men's brains, as well as their hands and but for the drop would grind and wear and inflame and ruin. The lesson is one worthy of study, and if put in practice will help matters exceedingly. If anyone cannot pay, bea with him. If we help one another we prosperity in the near Tobera.

THE COMING BATTLE. California is becoming theroughly awakened on the constitution ques tion, which comes up for its final pas sage four weeks from next Wednesday. If the popular feeling continues to go against it as it has for the last month. there is but little hope for it. The papers have picked it to pieces with a new, are busy with her lack of that sal which proves their sincerity if ne their wisdom. The danger is that they will overde the matter and produce a revolution which may sweet over the country as swiftly and violently as the one against the instru-ment, and if it should happen to strike the ebb just about the day of election the thing might step through. There is one thing certain, the entire monyed power of the state is arrayed against it, and the papers and politic advancing a great many strained, if not errobeeus, arguments which will hurt their case very much if a reaction sets in. Those for the constitution are making very little fuss, but there will be a great many votes cast on that side that are but little suspected new-

There is a many a man who would give another a good kick in the dark because he got ahead in the race, if indeed there isn't a streak of that in all of us. The argument that capital will suffer is very convincing to men with money, but to a great many poor men the conversion is more apparen than resl. Men who feel a little luctant to say that they would reb rich men even by law, will put in a wote "for" when they know that they can do it secretly. On the whole the chances are largely against the adoption of the constitution, as things

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Thousands of colored people are arriving destitue in St. Louis, on their way to Kaussa and Nebrasks. An appeal has been issued by some of the leading colored men in that place, Jeeding celered men is that place, setting forth that these people are fleeing from political persecution. Whatever may have been the persecutions the celored people sustained is Louisians and Mississippi, their removal to a new and cold country will only result in suffering. There is something radically wrong in a system that drives these people to a choice of crifs. Our southern friends can ill afford to loss the nears, while he is fitted for pushing, active pioneering of the northwest. The south wants immigrants, and climate and usage have made the blacks a necessity to it, therefore the southern people had better let them enjoy the full benefit of their rights.

The Austin Reveille has this to say in relation to Tong Sing, the Chinaman whom George Avery took off the train last Monday night on suspicie of being one of the murderers of another Chinaman in Austin:

we interviewed Sheriff Harper on the subject, also Deputy Sheriff Parrett, of Battle Mountain, who is in town, and they say it is the first they had heard of it. As last Tuesday was the first of April it is probable the GAZETTE is giving us a little "taffy," the story net having the slightest moundation in fact.

The Reveille is mistaken. The GA zerre's item was strictly true, except in one respect. It was Sheriff Miller, of Humbeldt, who telegraphed for the arrest instead of the Sheriff of Lander The scene of the murder was laid in Austin, as the GAZETTE stated,

The Eureka Sentinel says: The co gress is in extra session, not by fault of the Democratic party, but by the determination of the Republican party to prevent the repeal of certain obnexious and outrageous laws.

The laws spoken of are only "outrageous and obnoxious" to Democrats because they interfere with their usual methods of carrying elections by bull-dozing and ballot box stuffing

There was a good deal of stalwart The Bourbons will soon discover that an able minority, wish right and the A. and he sends it out again by paying loyal sentiment of the country on its side, is not so easy bull-dozed as a

> The Austin Reveille complains of the postal authorities, and says its letters and exchanges are often delayed be yond all reason. We have experienced the same delay and annoyance. Can't mething be dene to regulate mail matters? For the meney it costs, our postal department is the most lame and impetent institution we know of except our national legislature.

Some of the California papers are striking blindly at the new constitution, when they say that the menopolists and great land owners are in favor of it. Messrs. Editors, direct your arguments to the intelligence and understanding, and don't appeal to the senseless prejudices of foels and agrariane. When you do the latter you fall to the level of Kearney, and try to out-Herod Hered.

The scissors of the Stockton Herald has at last given an opinion to the world, i. e., that Alice Harrison's virtue is of national impertance. Glad to hear itbut we notice that the papers, just noral commedity.

An exchange compares the medern comparison won't do, for Judas had the good sense to hang himself, while the sheriff has to do the job for the average Democrat.

e Browlofky's Lecture at the

Last evening, in accordance with the announcement published in Saturday's GAZETTE, the Countess Browlofky delivered a lecture on the above topic. The church was crowded with an audience who seemed to appreciate both the subject matter and the manifest difficulty under which the lady labored in keeping within the bounds of an evening's discourse the mass of information at her command. The lady possesses a rather pleasing value and manner, a conversational style, which however lacking in dramatic possesses a rather pleasing voice owing to her foreign accent, and a jaw as observed in Pennsylvania, and happy faculty of illustration. Mme. Fred Wetherill has forwarded a receipt Browlofky began her lecture by stating that while she had lectured upon other subjects, including botany, chemistry, and temperance, this was the first time she had easayed "Russia, Poland, and Siberia." She found it impessions the state of an armore than the details of an to give more than the details of an outline. The progress, enlightenment and social features of Russian life, and social features of Russian life, and a comparison with American in telligence and customs, formed the chief part of her discourse. The wealth, education, and habits of the wealth, education, and habits of the solles, the poverty, degredation, and sufferings of the serfs—(freed since sufferings of the serfs—(freed since which is showered upon him. J. M. 1862 but subject to the same rules sufferings of the serfs—freed since 1862, but subject to the same rules and customs with few limitations now as before)-were intelligently set forth. Among Russians preper there are only two classes, the extreme rich and the miserable poor. The Russian nebleman's daughter is tutored in all re-spects like the mobleman's son. She learns the use of weapons, is taught to follow the heunds in the chase, and takes her part in the wolf-hunt with all the zest possible. The sciences and the zest peasible. The sciences and languages are esteemed a part of her education, and a very essential part, toe. She is not debarred from following, or at least studying, any profession which her brother might choose to enter, and in all outward respects is treated with unusual deference, and consideration. The accordance is treated with unusual deference, and consideration. ence and consideration. The serf's life was a direct contrast. They were human slaves, and perferce human beasts. They were driven to work like cattle. For trivial effences the knout—that herrible instrument of torture—was the punishment. It is frequent that the lifeless body of an der is lashed: the sentence must be carried out, the number of blews inflicted whether the victim be alive or dead. Russia has few prisons or penitentiaries. She has ne need for many. Siberia, Russia's vast prison-house and treasure-trove, and the knout, peasess terrors almost sufficient to restrain the starving man from theft. Unhappy Poland with its pa-triotic people, and dread Siberia with her uncoffined dead, came in fer a rather brief share of attention, the lateness

In this day of general knowledge, but little concerning the commenda-ble or objectionable features of national existence remains unrevealed te us, and it may be that some who at-tended this lecture may cavil at the fact that the most of it was already known to them. The lady has at her command, however, stores of information that the superficial observer would not obtain; and can and should make her information available. She prepages to lecture again this evening preposes to lecture again this evening at the M. E. Church. Her subject will be mere confined, and hence may be expected to be more thorough. Arrested for Robbery.

William Luke, while laboring under a stress of whisky last Saturday night, was held up and robbed of $18 and a railroad ticket to Eureka. Two men, G. L. Gardner and William Madden, were arrested on his complaint for committing the crime. According to his story, Luke started from Virginia Saturday, for Eureka. On the train he fell in with the defendants, who treated him to divers drinks from a whisky bottle, so that by the time the train reached Reno he was from a whisky bottle, so that by the time the train reached Reno he was gleriously and foolishly drunk. While waiting for the overland express, he says the defendants "went through him." Madden and Gardner were brought before Judge Bowker this metning for examination on a charge of highway robbery. The case was centinued ever until 4 o'cleck this afternoon.

SUNDAY'S DISCOURSE.

A Synopsis of Mr. Jenvey's Sermon Yes

Mr. Jenvey gave us a sermon yesterday upon Psalm xxxi, 20: "Thou shall hide them in the secret of Thy resence from the pride of man. Thou shalt keep them secretly in a pavilien from the strife of tongues." He first defined what was meant by the pride of man. He claimed that there was a true pride and a false oride—that there was nothing wrong could erect around his honor and his life. In a false pride, however, there lurked one of the deadliest foes to bonor and happiness, and fer the simple reasen that it was the fell offspring of a mean and selfish nature. He claimed that when a man was determined to attain to the topmost round of business fame by foul means if not by fair, he was actuated by this false pride of man. When he was bent upon shining as a star in the congress of the nation, and when he got there on the strength of lying speeches, false pledges and fawning promises, regardless of the weal of his party and regardless only of self and selfish ends, that he too was actuated and impelled by this same false pride of man. In short, any-thing which was done for the aggran-dizement of self, the advancement of self, and in total disregard of the dictates of henor, the principles of henor, or the calls of humanity, was done under the spell of this false denne what was meant by the strife of towns. He maintained that any lying speech, slanderous remark, er back-biting thing belonged pre-eminently to this strife of tongues. He Garden Seeds. laimed that everything said to blacken the reputation, to injure the character or stain the good name of any man, woman or child, also belonged to this same strife of tongues. There was only two much of it in the world as it is, without our increasing it by adding ourselves to the number of the gessip-mengers of the day. But now, he concluded, when there is so much false pride, and when so much evil results from it—when there is such constant strife of tongues, and when

Dr. Snow informed a GAZETTE re porter to-day that there was little tope of saving the two surviving children of Isaac Johnson. The ray ages of scarlet fever in this family was speken of some time ago in the Ga-ZETTE. There were six children in the buried the same day—and the remaining twe are lying at death's door, with scarcely a hope of recovery. The last death, that of the youngest child, occurred yesterday, and the funeral took place to-day. This unfortunate family seems to have drained the full cup of human woe. Mr. Johnson has been almost beggared by his children's sickness, and new it appears that he is to be left childless.
